Poetry.

Good Heart and Willing Hand.

BY CHARLES MACAY.

In storm or shine, two friends of mine
Go forth to work or play,
And when they visit poor men's homes,
They bless them by the way.

They're their faces glow,

Come shining 'tis bright I come dark—'tis light

Come cold—'tis winter ere long!

So heavily fall the haughty strokes!

Merrily sound the song!

Without these twain, the poor complain

Of evils hard to bear,

But who sees not how rich grow,

And finds a lot to pass?

The two look fire—their words inspire—

Their deeds give courage high;

About their knees the children run,

Or climb, they know not why,

Who sails, or rides, or walks with them,

Ne'er finds the journey long;

Merrily sound the song!

Well, who sees not how rich grow,

And finds a lot to pass?

The two look fire—their words inspire—

Their deeds give courage high;

About their knees the children run,

Or climb, they know not why,

Who sails, or rides, or walks with them,

Ne'er finds the journey long;

Merrily sound the song!

Well, who sees not how rich grow,

And finds a lot to pass?

The two look fire—their words inspire—

Their deeds give courage high;

The New Era.

Newmarket, Friday March 19, 1858.

General Summary.

It is with pleasure we announce to our numerous enquiring friends, that our health has so far improved as to afford a reasonable hope that in the course of three or four weeks we shall be able, to a certain extent, to resume the oversight of the New Era.

The election of a Municipal Councillor to supply the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Jackson on account of ill health, takes place at the Court House, on Monday next.

The Ministry, during the past week, have, on several occasions, been left in the minority by Upper Canada,—still they continue to rule us by a Lower Canadian majority. How long will such a state of things be tolerated?

Our friend Dr. Bell has been honored with a mark of distinction, we perceive, by the present government—having received the appointment of Coroner. The appointment is all right enough—the Dr. being well qualified to fill the office; but it looks like soft rauder.

We have been requested to announce that a meeting of the Municipal Electors of this Village will be held in the Court House to-morrow (Saturday) evening, at half-past seven o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a fit candidate to fill the vacancy in the Council, caused by the retirement of Mr. Jackson.

Correspondence.

We wish to distinctly understand that we are responsible for the opinions of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the New Era.
Mr. EDITOR.—The following extracts from Hon. Horace Mann's "Thoughts for Young Men," may have an influence for good on some of the youthful readers of the New Era. How important is it that the Youth of Canada be constantly on their guard against those works of induction which lie hidden on the sea of false pleasure, rocks on which thousands and millions have made shipwreck.

I ask the young man who is just forming his habits of life, or just beginning to indulge those habitual trains of thought out of which habits grow, to look around him, and mark the example where fortune, he would covet, or whose fate he would abhor. Even as we walk the streets, we meet with exhibitions of each extreme. Here, behold the patriarch, whose stock of vigor three-score years and ten seem hardly to have impaired. His erect form; his firm step, his elastic limbs, and undimmed vision; as so many certificates of good conduct; or, rather, so many jewels and orders of nobility with which nature has honored him for his fidelity to her laws. His fair complexion shows that his blood has never been corrupted; his pure breath that he has never yielded his digestive apparatus for a vicious cesspool; his exact language and keen apprehension, that his brain has never been drugged or stupefied by the poisons of a dissiller or tubercular. Enjoying his appetites to the highest, he has preserved the power of enjoying them. Despite the moral of the school boy's story, he has eaten his cake and still kept it. At he drains the cup of life, there are no less at the bottom. His organs will reach the goal of existence together. Painlessly as a candle burns out in its socket, so will he expire; and a little imagination would convert him into another Enoch, translated from earth to a better world without the sting of death.

But look at an opposite extreme, where an opposite history is recorded. What wreck so shocking to behold as the wreck of a dissolute man?—the vigor of life exhausted, and yet the first step in an honorable career not taken; in himself a larger house of diseases; dead, but, by a healthful custom of society, not buried! Rogues have had the initial letter of their title burnt into the palms of their hands; even for murder, Cain was only branded on the forehead; but over the whole person of the debauchee, or the imbutio, the signatures of infamy are written. How nature brands him with stigma and opprobrium! How she hangs labels all over him, to testify his disgust at his existence, and to admonish others to beware of his example! How she loses all his joints, sends tremors along his muscles, and bends forward his frame, as if to bring him upon all fours with kindred brutes, or to degrade him to the reptiles crawling. How she disfigures his countenance, as if intent upon obliterating all traces of her own image, so that she may swear she never made him! How she pours rheum over his eyes, sends foul spirits to inhabit his breath, and shrikes, as with a trumpet, from every part of his body. BEHOLD A BEAST! Such a man may be seen in the streets of our cities every day; if rich enough, he may be found in the saloons, and at the tables of the "Upper Ten?" but surely, to every man of purity and honor, to every man whose wisdom as well as whose heart is unblemished, the wretch who comes bleeding from the pilory, and insolent with his appropriate perfume, would be a guest or a companion far less offensive and disgusting.

Now let the young man, rejoicing in his many propensions, and in his coolness, look on this picture, and on this, and then say, after the likeness of model he intends his own erect statue bold sublime countenance shall be conformed.

"Society is infinitely too tolerant of the worse, —the wretched whose life-long pleasure it has been to debauch himself and debauch others; whose heart has been spilt with infamy as well; that it is no longer spotless, but black all over; and who, at least, deserves to be treated as a scoundrel, say the wild horses of the parties still a violin follows, —the nobles of the band forming a compact circle around him and kicking him to death."

On the 27th of April, the New Era will be published.

Childhood and its Visitors,
BY SIR EDWARD B. LYTON.

Once on a time, when sunny May
Was kissing up the April showers,
I saw fair childhood hard at play
Before a blank of fishing flowers.
Happy—he knew not whence or how;
And smiling—who could choose but love him
Far more bright than childhood's bairn,
Was the gay heaven that laughed above him.

Old Time came babbling in his wrath,
And that green Valley's calm invaded;
The brooks grew dry beneath his path,
The birds were mute, the fishes faded.
A Grecian tomb stood full in sight,
And that old Time began to batter,
But childhood watched his paper kiss,
Nor heeded him one whit the master.

With curling lip and eye ardent,
Gulf gazed upon the scene a minute;
But Childhood's archly simple glance
Had such a holy spell within it,
That the dark demon to the air
Again spread forth his baffled pinion,
And his envy and despair,
Self-torment, in his own dominion.

Then stepped a gloomy phantom up,
Pale, cypress-crown'd night's woolly daughter
And proffered him a fearful cup,
Felt to the brim of bitter water:
Says Childhood, "Madam what's your name?"
And when the beldame uttered "Sorrow,"
Then cried, "Don't intercept my game!
I pity thee call again to-morrow."

The muse of Pindus bither came,
And wood him with the softest numbers
That ever scattered woe and fame
Upon a youthful poet's shoulders.
Though sweet the lyre and sweet the lay,
To Childhood it was all a riddle:

"Good gracious!" cried he, and away
That noisy woman with a fiddle!"

Then Wisdom stole his hat and bell,
And taught him, with most sage endeavor,
Why bubbles rise and aconite fall,
And why no joy may last forever;
She talked of all the wondrous laws
Which Nature's open book discloses;

But Childhood, when she made a pause,
Was fast asleep among the roses.

Sleep on, sleep on!—Pale manhood's dreams
Are all of earthly pain or pleasure;
Of glory's toils, ambition's schemes,
Or cherished love or hoarded treasures;
But to the couch where Childhood lies
A pure unmingled trance is given,

Lit up by rays from seraph's eyes,
And glimpses of remembered heaven!

Amusement.

—Madam, you said your son was a lawyer
—has he much practice? —"Why, yes sir, he has a practice—of smoking cigars."

—The tradesman who does not advertise liberally, has been very appropriately compared to a man who has a lantern, but is too stingy to buy a candle.

—A French engineer was travelling upon an old Ohio steamboat, and observed to the captain: "This engine is in very poor condition."

—"That's so," was the reply.

—"How long do you expect to run it?"

—"Till it bursts," was the cool answer.

After the next landing there was a Frenchman less on board the boat.

INVALIDS, READ AND JUDGE FOR YOURSELVES

JULES HAUET, Esq., the well-known perfumer of Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, whose article products are found at almost every druggist's.

I am happy to say of my CATHARIC PILLS, that I have found them a better family medicine for common use than any other.

For many years in my family or couple and wife with us falling success. You make medicines while cure, and I feel it a pleasure to commend you for the good you have done and are doing.

JOHN F. BEATTY, Esq., Sec. of the Penn. Railroad Co., says: "In H. R. O. Philadelphia, Dec. 13, 1858.

—Your medicals have derived a great benefit from the use of both your Perforated and Cathartic Pills. I am now with you, and am ever ready to consent to be with you, while my health will permit.

The widely renowned R. E. STEVENS, D. of W. Stevens, N. Y., writes: "Sir: I have been free from this loathsome disease for over two years, and am now entirely perfect. In cases of disordered functions of the liver, causing debility, indigestion, constipation, and the great variety of diseases that follow, they are really remarkable. I consider it highly recommended to the public, as superior to any other I have ever found, and I can assure you that they are a safe and efficacious remedy." They are also manufacturing Ketchum's HOW-MO MACHINE, at a reduced price.

CHRISTIAN AND ITS VISITORS,

BY SIR EDWARD B. LYTON.

Once on a time, when sunny May

Was kissing up the April showers,

I saw fair childhood hard at play

Before a blank of fishing flowers.

Happy—he knew not whence or how;

And smiling—who could choose but love him

Far more bright than childhood's bairn,

Was the gay heaven that laughed above him.

Old Time came babbling in his wrath;

And that green Valley's calm invaded;

The brooks grew dry beneath his path,

The birds were mute, the fishes faded.

A Grecian tomb stood full in sight,

And that old Time began to batter,

But childhood watched his paper kiss,

Nor heeded him one whit the master.

With curling lip and eye ardent,

Gulf gazed upon the scene a minute;

But Childhood's archly simple glance

Had such a holy spell within it,

That the dark demon to the air

Again spread forth his baffled pinion,

And his envy and despair,

Self-torment, in his own dominion.

Then stepped a gloomy phantom up,

Pale, cypress-crown'd night's woolly daughter

And proffered him a fearful cup,

Felt to the brim of bitter water:

Says Childhood, "Madam what's your name?"

And when the beldame uttered "Sorrow,"

Then cried, "Don't intercept my game!

I pity thee call again to-morrow."

The muse of Pindus bither came,

And wood him with the softest numbers

That ever scattered woe and fame

Upon a youthful poet's shoulders.

Though sweet the lyre and sweet the lay,

To Childhood it was all a riddle:

"Good gracious!" cried he, and away

That noisy woman with a fiddle!"

Then Wisdom stole his hat and bell,

And taught him, with most sage endeavor,

Why bubbles rise and aconite fall,

And why no joy may last forever;

She talked of all the wondrous laws

Which Nature's open book discloses;

But to the couch where Childhood lies

A pure unmingled trance is given,

Lit up by rays from seraph's eyes,

And glimpses of remembered heaven!

Then Wisdom stole his hat and bell,

And taught him, with most sage endeavor,

Why bubbles rise and aconite fall,

And why no joy may last forever;

She talked of all the wondrous laws
